

Which line seems the best fit ?

Determining the best line

- For any line, we can calculate what's known as the Least Squares.
- The Least Squares method in regression provides us with a line that results in the least differences between the values predicted by the line and the data themselves....
- So, for the three possible lines we just looked at....