

How much each observed value differs from the regression line (called SS_R):

How much the mean value of Y differs from the regression line for different values of x (called SS_M):

